APPLE BANK FOR SAVINGS PROMOTES NICOLE MCNULTY TO VICE PRESIDENT

CO-OP CITY, NY – MAY 11, 2017 – Apple Bank for Savings has announced the promotion of Nicole McNulty to Vice President. Ms. McNulty, who has been with the bank for over 29 years, is the Branch Manager at the bank's Co-op City location in the Bronx.

James Matera, Executive Vice President and Head of Apple Bank's Consumer Banking Division, said, "Nicole McNulty has been a tremendous asset to the bank for nearly three decades. Her dedication and commitment to our customers and the neighborhoods we serve has been exemplary. I am so pleased that Nicole has been recognized for her contributions with this promotion."

Ms. McNulty began her banking career with Apple Bank in 1988 as a teller at the bank's Thornwood branch in Westchester. She has served in increasingly responsible positions in sales and customer service before becoming a Branch Manager in 2003 at the bank's Pelham Parkway branch location in the Bronx. Ms. McNulty was promoted to Assistant Vice President in 2004. She became the Branch Manager in the Co-op City location in 2014.

A graduate of Pace University with a B.A. in Human Resources, Ms. McNulty lives in Yonkers and grew up in Mt. Vernon. She has been an active member of the New York Taino Chapter of the Lions Club in the Bronx for over 12 years.
